

I am very concerned that relaxing broadcast ownership rules has a great potential to limit opposing viewpoints in the media. The liberal beliefs of the majority of the major media corporations are well documented and are exemplified in the recent use of the term "newsitorial." To allow potential additional domination of media outlets by these groups presents an opportunity for a monopoly of the worst kind - not for dollars but for ideology. I believe a very conservative approach is called for.